Where are capybaras naturally found?

- A. Asia
- B. Africa
- C. South America
- D. Australia

Fun Fact:

Capybaras live in South America, the home of cool creatures like llamas and sloths. Capys love warm places and hanging out in watery spots like lakes and rivers.

What is the largest rodent in the world?

- A. Squirrel
- B. Guinea Pig
- C. Capybara
- D. Beaver

Fun Fact:

Yep — the capybara is the biggest rodent on Earth!

That means it's like a super-sized cousin of the guinea pig. It can grow as big as a golden retriever!

But don't worry — even though it's giant, the capybara is super gentle, calm, and loves to chill in the water with its animal buddies.

What is a baby capybara called?

- A. Pup
- B. Cub
- C. Kit
- D. Chick

Fun Fact:

Just like baby dogs are called puppies, baby capybaras are called pups!

They're born with fur, open eyes, and can even start nibbling on grass within a few days. Capybara pups love to snuggle together in groups — it's like one big cuddle puddle!

How many toes does a capybara have on its front feet?

- A. 2
- B. 3
- C. 4
- D. 5

Fun Fact:

Capybaras have four toes on their front feet and three toes on the back — kind of like they're wearing funny little water shoes!

Their toes are spread out with a bit of webbing, which helps them walk on squishy mud and swim like pros. It's nature's built-in flippers!

What do capybaras eat?

- A. Fish
- B. Grass
- C. Bugs
- D. Berries only

Fun Fact:

Capybaras are super chill plant-eaters — they love munching on fresh grass, water plants, and sometimes even fruit.

They snack all day like lawnmowers with legs! Their teeth never stop growing, so chewing tough grass helps keep them just the right size.
